What Interested You in Plumbing?

I am interested in the trades in general because I am looking for job security and hands-on work. I enjoy working with my hands and like the idea of not working in the same place every day for years. I look forward to developing a specific set of skills that will help assist me and what I see as a career not just a job. Being a plumber will give me variety and challenge me to keep up with industry standards while affording me a comfortable lifestyle.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I thrive with hands-on learning and want to work while learning.

Casually as a father of three there's always something around the house to fix on so I guess I could consider that a hobby. I've done free lance plumbing work to get some more hands on experience for close ones and in my own residence. Currently tending to two piping issues in my current home that need some tending to. I'm realizing an unfortunate poor habit that's been reoccurring in other piping I've seen especially under kitchen sinks is people not using the primer and cement and sometimes they aren't even screwed together at the connecting points either. Tending to other fixtures around the house I've patched up a few holes using drywall spackle. Definitely enjoy doing paint jobs which I grew up doing all the time with my mom. Far as hobbies I play chess often which equates to better problem solving skills and that definitely can make a big difference between a

In all honesty i haven't had much experience in pipe trades which is why I'm applying and as I stated in one of my previous answers I'm looking to learn EVERYTHING. I've done plumbing work in an on site training for a few days but no actual pipe trades experience working for anyone.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Two years ago I was enrolled in an introduction to trades program with SDC which gave me experience in a few different trades. I graduated at the top of my class with a certification in lead and asbestos removal. Towards the end of the program my father who owns his own lead and asbestos removal company allowed me to give it a try. After a short time I realized I liked it however it wasn't challenging or mentally stimulating enough. Once I ofc silly graduated from the program I ventured into some demolition and carpentry work with another business briefly however I wasn't too fond of how I was being treated for what was supposed to be an "apprenticeship." In hindsight the manager had expectations of my classmate and I knowing a larger magnitude on renovating a home than we essentially knew therefore we weren't able to produce fast enough for his

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Well from the little information I received on apprenticeships it sounds like a great opportunity to do what most companies won't; take the time out to actually train people to effectively do a job only with this you're being paid to learn. There's schools overseas to my understanding that pay their students to go to school which to most Americans I

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

In my previous jobs, I gained valuable experience that applies directly to the pipe trades. I was involved in basic plumbing tasks, such as repairing leaks and replacing valves, which helped me understand pipe systems. I also had opportunities to assist with welding repairs, where I learned the importance of precision, safety, and proper tool handling. Additionally, I developed fabrication skills by measuring, cutting, and assembling parts for equipment, reinforcing my attention to detail. These experiences taught me how to read schematics, work efficiently under time pressure, and collaborate with others—essential skills for pipe fitting, welding, and fabrication.

I enjoy working on DIY projects, such as building furniture and doing home repairs. These activities have helped me develop practical skills like measuring accurately, using tools safely, and following step-by-step processes. I've also learned the importance of patience, problem-solving, and attention to detail, which are essential in construction. Additionally, managing these projects has strengthened my ability to plan, work efficiently, and stay focused on completing tasks, all of which are highly transferrable to the construction trades.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship in plumbing is attractive to me because it offers the opportunity to gain hands-on experience while learning directly from skilled professionals. I prefer practical, on-the-job learning over a traditional classroom setting, as it allows me to develop real-world skills and problem-solving abilities. Additionally, earning a wage while Currently I bounce between three hobbies: Fishing, rock climbing, and wrenching on cars.

Pipe Welding Proficiency:

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I think the wrenching hobby helps you understand what you can and cannot do with the tools at hand. As someone who works on European cars "for fun", you have to know what tool to grab, and how to use it to not only properly finish the job, but to also not break anything. I think I have a pretty broad understanding of what most tools are used for, and how to apply that to a working environment.

When I was a teenager I used to be a mason tender/ general concrete laborer. I would later help my brother with cultured stone work and fireplaces on the side. While not directly related to the pipe trades, it was good construction work experience.

Rock climbing might not have that big of an overlap with construction, but I think the critical thinking and problem solving skills that come with climbing will help. I'm

My current job is probably even further away from the pipe trades, but currently I manage all paint related inventory for the shop. This includes everything from paint tints to paint gun parts and maintenance. I believe these management skills can come into play as I learn more about plumbing and estimating job's parts and labor.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always liked the construction trades, I had some experience being a laborer when I was younger. I always liked the variety of all the job sites you visit, constantly changing and learning new things based on the situation you're in. In my experience as a laborer, even though I wasn't super skilled at any particular thing, I always loved to see these huge projects come together.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I've always been a hands on learner. it's hard to internalize mechanical and tactile work through a lecture or through a computer screen. I believe hands on experience and seeing this new knowledge in action is key. Real world scenarios versus curriculum often varies, and this apprenticeship should be the best of both worlds.

What draws me to plumbing is the prospect of a reliable technical career doing important work for the public. I've always been a hands on worker. I have a mechanical/ automotive background and I think that mechanical knowledge would lend itself well to learning how to be a great plumber. I recognize that water and its various processes/ transport

I've only had one job and that was working at my family-owned pizza place. Throughout my four years of working there, I have learned people skills being better at communicating with others then ever before.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Throughout my time in high school, I found that I enjoy doing hands on work more than sitting behind a computer all day. Due to this interest in hands on work, I started looking into careers that specialized in hands on work. I also looked for jobs that had stability with demand for the jobs and decent pay and that's when I stumbled into the trades. Initially I wanted to do cement / concrete but found myself being drawn to plumbing instead.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

When I learned about apprenticeships while learning more about the trades it seemed like an enticing offer. Throughout my school life I always had thought college had to be the next step there wasn't another choice, but college was expensive. So, when I had heard about apprenticeships I instantly wanted in.

Plumbing had always interested me, but I hadn't looked into it as much as I figured it wasn't for me but the more, I looked into it the more I thought about how much I wanted to do it. Not only does it seem like an interesting and sustaining job it also seems

I am currently a Director of Plant Operations for a memory/dementia care community. Before starting this role 2 years ago, I was a maintenance technician. As a director, I am responsible for building safety systems, building upkeep, electrical & plumbing repairs, and managing maintenance, laundry, and housekeeping services to provide for our residents. My favorite part of this role was handling the more "complex" repairs that my team did not feel comfortable with. Tasks such as dismantling & replacing commercial dishwasher drain lines, replacing cracked hot water return pipe, etc..

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always been curious and fascinated with constructions projects in general since I was a kid. My father would work on DIY renovation projects around the house and I would help him -- Everything from basic plumbing to basic electrical work. Apart from that, I would always tinker with different mechanical toys and devices.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I would like to start my career in plumbing because I know the least about this discipline. For example, pitch/slope, combining different materials, and other technical rules to follow. Additionally, the apprenticeship approach, especially for somebody looking to switch career paths, is an excellent balance of classroom education, hands on practice,

While my curiosity covers multiple domains, I am interested in plumbing in particular, because it is the trade I know the least about and would like to master it.

I had a job as a cook for a few years but what I learned from that doesn't really apply for plumbing. I have a job as a insulation installer and that has shown some of the ins and outs in the trades. I am using powers tools at my job so I have experience with them

What Interested You in Plumbing?

My interest in plumbing came from finding out how much money you can make while doing it. I also have interest in plumbing because I enjoy working with my hands and am not afraid of physical labor.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I get paid to learn. I do not enjoy school but an apprenticeship program pays me while I am in school so it make the school more enjoyable.

I worked for the sprinkler fitters local 183 as an apprentice for just over one year. I learned a bunch beforehand working for a different company as a shop hand for over a year, so I am comfortable with most of the material pertaining to piping.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I liked the idea of knowing what goes on with the innermost workings of a houses piping systems and how specifically water goes where it goes. I was a sprinkler fitter for about a year so I have a decent amount of knowledge with dealing with piping and I enjoyed that job very much. I love working with my hands so having a trades job really fulfilled the part of me. My love of Lego's I know for a fact has been a major factor in me seeing something that needs to get done, and is driven to see it get finished every step of the way. Once I get started on something I need to see it through to the end and I will do everything in my power to make sure to do whatever I can.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

It gives me the opportunity to make money while learning information and skills I will use for the rest of my life. It also gives me something that fulfills my love for hands on work. Being able to help and connect with others that love the same work that I do is another aspect of an apprenticeship that draws me to it.

Well to be honest my recent job I have is basically a driver working in construction areas, so I haven't learned any skills but I have seen other companies while I'm working. I'm willing to learn the skills that are required in the pipe trade its a career im really looking forward to it.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I'm a hands on type of person I learn better when i'm taught that way. Also I enjoy problem solving when I know this is what plumbing is all about and just learning other descriptions that come with the job. You can work in different locations, on different types of projects, and face new problems each day, thats what I also like about the plumbing trade.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is an attractive option for several reasons. Firstly, it offers a practical, hands-on approach to learning a trade or profession. This method allows me to gain real world experience and develop valuable skills directly applicable to the job market.

Secondly, apprenticeships often lead to employment opportunities. Many programs are

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've always been a hands-on worker and took pride in my work. Ever since I took up welding, I started to explore more trades and developed a strong interest with plumbing, so I joined the Army Reserve as a Plumber and would like to plumb full time with this union.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Being able to learn my craft alongside a more experienced trades worker sounds like an amazing opportunity to learn and apply skills I otherwise wouldn't have, especially when I'm getting paid to do so. I also aspire to become a journeyman one day, and being an apprentice first comes with it.

Even though I may not have direct experience working on pipelines, my past jobs have given me valuable skills that I can bring into the plumbing trade. While working at Menards in the plumbing department, I learned some of the basics about pipes, fittings, and plumbing materials, which helped me start to understand how different systems work together. My time at Walgreens as a cashier and stocker taught me patience, good customer service, and how to communicate effectively with people—all important skills when working with clients or on a team.

Another skill that will help me succeed in plumbing is my ability to read and understand written instructions or technical materials. Being able to follow manuals, safety guidelines, and blueprints accurately is essential in this line of work. On top of that, I've already had some hands-on experience helping a family friend remodel bathrooms, which Relevant Experience Level: A little. No specific trade experience, but I have general skills in construction or welding.

I do a lot of out door activities that will have me problem solving to find a method that works out better. I currently work as a construction worker, specifically framing, so they've benefited me well. Especially with learning a new method of doing something and why it's important to follow step correctly and adapt when they don't goes as planned.

I worked in foundation and did repair work for drain tiles and things of that nature. So getting the proper draining for the water was mandatory. Which ultimately lead to sump pumps and piping the basic systems for those units.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

One of the most essential trades in the house or in the building. Throughout my career, I recognized the importance of running water and the type of joy it can bring to a person if working properly. I would like to be a part of that.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

It not only encourages learning. Not everyone is comfortable doing these types of projects and knowing that I am comfortable and willing to provide that help motivates me.

A little. No specific trade experience, but I have general skills in construction or welding.

Outside of work I enjoy doing a wide variety of projects around my house in my spare time. I take a lot of pride in my willingness to learn so I will attempt to tackle just about any home project I have. I have renovated my a majority of my house myself. I also enjoy woodworking and have recently started learning how to work on cars. I have done some of my own plumbing including repairs at home and have enjoyed learning and seeing how it all works. I believe doing this stuff outside of work has given me a better understanding about how a lot of things in homes operate and their importance. It's made me a lot more comfortable using different tools and helped a lot with my ability to problem solve.

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I have had jobs allowing me to learn mechanical skills, including garage door servicing and installs, maintenance work for restaurants, electrical repairs and functionalities, and I have done black pipe, copper pipe, and flex pipe gas plumbing work in new construction homes, as well as some small repairs.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I currently do service work so I am comfortable with harder labor work being in and out of peoples homes. I have done gas piping and worked closely with plumbers and what they do interests me, knowing how much goes into plumbing and how important it is to the world. I am confident it would be a great way to learn and utilize my existing skillset and build upon it to better myself and become a great plumber.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

It would be an opportunity to earn while I learn, and offer my skillset to an employer. My goal would be to better myself, while also bettering the company I work with. The opportunity to learn on the job and still support my family allows for a great career choice.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always been drawn to hands-on work where I can clearly see the results of my efforts. The building trades appealed to me because they are practical, in demand, and provide skills that are valuable for a lifetime. I respect work that serves a real purpose and contributes something meaningful, rather than remaining purely theoretical. Plumbing, in particular, interests me because it is a trade centered on problem-solving and reliability both of which are essential in everyday life. It requires a balance of physical ability and technical knowledge, and the work is never repetitive. I value the level of responsibility that comes with the profession. Plumbing also offers opportunities for advancement, and a strong sense of pride in quality workmanship.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Tinkering and fixing things around the house. I've replaced toilet parts in the tank, faucets, and had a project to re-route the sump pump line past an old, cracked, ceramic pipe that used to carry water to the street. I have a general interest in learning new things.

Pipe Welding Proficiency: None

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs : None. I was in the technology sector. The closest I can get to that is reading manuals to figure out how things work.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I want to learn a skill that I can apply to my own home. I am ready to learn a practical skill that I can apply anywhere. I am looking for a steady job that I can be proud of.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Learning a new skill. Working with my hands and getting repetitions in is the way to learn. I have a reason to want to learn more as I can use this knowledge on my own home and help out my family if needed. After being on the white collar path, I'm seeing more that the trades structure seems like the way it should be regardless of what you go into.

In my previous jobs, I've developed several skills that translate well into the pipe trades. I've gained experience working with my hands, using tools safely, and following detailed instructions—skills that are essential in plumbing and the other pipe trades. I've also learned the importance of staying organized, showing up on time, and completing tasks efficiently, whether working independently or as part of a team.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've always been drawn to hands-on work where I can see the direct results of my effort. The plumbing trades appealed to me because they offer practical, essential skills and the opportunity to contribute to projects that have a real impact on people's daily lives. I enjoy problem-solving, working with tools, and staying active, which makes the trades a fit for me. Plumbing specifically interests me because it combines technical knowledge with critical thinking. It plays a crucial role in the safety, comfort, and functionality of every building, and I appreciate that the work is meaningful and in high demand. I'm motivated by the idea of becoming highly skilled in a trade that requires precision, responsibility, and continual learning.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

A plumbing apprenticeship is appealing to me because it offers the chance to learn a highly skilled trade through hands-on experience while earning a wage. I like the idea of working alongside experienced professionals and gaining practical knowledge that can't be learned from a textbook alone. Plumbing is a trade that requires problem-solving,

I was always a "hands on" type of person. I learn better with my hands rather than something being visually presented to me. To give an example, back when I was in college, one of my professors always stressed that in order to learn something, you had to develop the neuropathways and allow your brain to actually soak the material being learned and that was only being repetition and being hands on.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

As I stated before, I was always a "hands on" type of person so learn best when I am able to physically do the job. If I am able to learn the skills in plumbing, I know I can do my part is helping others in their time of need. This is why I want to start an apprenticeship

Next, my current home usually has minor plumbing issues and doing a quick YouTube search on how to fix things usually only applies a band aid to the situation. I can only do what's in my ability because I don't have the complete skills and knowledge to make full 100% repairs. I also know a service call in plumbing can be expensive. In my demolition job, I gained a lot of hands-on experience that I believe is directly applicable to the pipe trades. Working in demolition required me to use a variety of tools safely and effectively, follow safety procedures closely, and stay aware of my surroundings at all times. I learned the importance of working carefully but efficiently, since every project required both speed and precision to get the job done correctly without compromising safety.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always been interested in the building trades because I enjoy working with my hands, solving practical problems, and being part of projects that have a lasting impact. The trades offer the chance to develop valuable skills while contributing to the creation and maintenance of essential infrastructure. I'm drawn to the idea of working in a field where hard work and craftsmanship are appreciated and where there is always an opportunity to keep learning and improving.

That job also taught me teamwork and communication, since demolition projects often involved coordinating with others to stay on schedule and handle unexpected challenges.

I am eager to get into a field where I can be proud of my work more so than I would ever be able to in an office setting. I want to be able to finish a job and take pride in it knowing I did that. I am not afraid of a little soreness or to get dirty, rather, that's what interests me. I want something that challenges me and when I overcome that obstacle, I

I am not afraid of tight spots or places, and I have fixed a few household issues using common sense and how-to videos in which I impressed myself with how well I did by the end and how much satisfaction it gave me. I love a job well done, and I like doing every

In my experience working in a warehouse picking split-case, I had to meet productivity expectations which taught me how to work efficiently. During the Covid-19 outbreak, I worked at the temperature desk at a dental office. I enforced rules about wearing proper PPE which did upset people. This job taught me how to interact with difficult patients professionally and respectfully. I believe that this is a skill that is essential to any job that provides a service to other people. My customer service skills were enhanced by working in private security as well.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Growing up, I preferred to participate in hands-on activities because I found them more interesting, which is why I have recently decided to pursue the trades. My most recent job, working private security for a hardware store, has confirmed my interest in the trades. I enjoy talking to the contractors and tradesmen that come and go through the store because they are all down to earth and good people who want to get their jobs done. I like hearing them talk about their jobs because they do good work that helps people.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I previously worked as a Park worker three for Milwaukee County and worked with various tools and machinery to complete tasks. I was also responsible for receiving complaints such as toilet, sink, and pool problems and escalating them to the appropriate departments. I also believe that my experience as a Milwaukee Police Officer will assist with problem solving skills as well as communication skills.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

While looking over trades that are in demand, I found plumbing. After researching more about a career in plumbing I find a lot of interest in the problem solving aspect as well as the hard work ethic required. I also enjoy starting a project, seeing it through until it is completed, and viewing the end result.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Apprenticeship is an attractive option for me because it will give me the opportunity to learn in the field first hand, learn in classes, and still provide for my family.

At Horsch & Miller I learned to measure and cut pipe, how to maintain a clean workspace, identify different fittings and understand what they are used for, installation of water heater and I learned how a water heater with gas pipe is installed.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Both my dad and grandpa were in the trades, so it is familiar to me. I am not interested in going to college. I like making money. I worked for Horsch & Miller for a while and enjoyed what I was learning there. I am interested in joining the union because I can make more money and have steadier work as a union employee.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

As an apprentice I can earn money while learning a specific trade instead of spending a bunch of money to hopefully get a job.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Plumbing stood out to me specifically because it's a trade that mixes problem-solving with technical skill, and there's always something new to learn. I like the idea of doing meaningful work that keeps homes and businesses running safely, and I'm motivated by the stability, growth, and long-term career opportunities plumbing offers. The more I learned about the trade, the more I realized it fits the way I think and the kind of future I want to build.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because it lets me earn while I'm learning and build real skills through hands-on experience. I like the structure of working directly with experienced tradespeople while also getting classroom training, because it gives me the confidence that I'm being taught the right way from day one.

I have worked in restaurants for 15 years. I have had to work with sinks, toilets and dishwashers, and have a pretty good grasp on how to fix most simple problems. I have dealt with maintenance of drains and cleaning up flooding.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have been working in the service industry, specifically restaurants, for about 15 years. After Covid shut everything down, I found myself bouncing around from job to job trying to make ends meet. I was able to keep steady work for awhile, but I think that I have grown out of this type of work. After my last couple of jobs I have found that I have exhausted a lot of my patience and hard work for people who do not appreciate the effort I put forth. I have been working with sinks, toilets and dishwashers for a long time, so I thought I might be a good candidate for a plumbing apprentice.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I find that I learn better by having hands on training. If I have person with me showing me how to do it, I can learn the process faster and do it on my own sooner. I also have a young family, so the ability to learn and earn money at the same time is very important to me.

I worked as a warehouse associate where I regularly used hand tools, followed safety protocols, and collaborated with a team to meet deadlines. This experience taught me how to work efficiently and safely—skills I know are essential in the pipe trades.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've always been drawn to hands-on work that needs problem-solving. The building trades offer a unique opportunity to create, repair, and improve the spaces people rely on every day—and that sense of purpose really resonates with me. Plumbing, in particular, stood out because it requires technical skill, attention to detail, and the ability to think critically under pressure

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is a great fit for me because it combines hands-on training with earning a paycheck, giving me real-world experience without the stress of student debt. I'm excited to learn the plumbing trade from experienced professionals and build the technical skills needed to excel in the field.

I enjoy Brazilian Jujitsu as a hobby, this hobby allows me to maintain physical fitness and a mind that needs to critically think and constantly learn - both of which are needed in construction. I also enjoy trips to the gun range; this hobby demands constant attention to safety and awareness of surroundings. Construction trades are dangerous and constantly changing, awareness of surroundings and attentions to safety are most important. After shooting my guns I also need to take the time to clean and maintain them, this is also something that construction trades need to do when working with equipment or tools. Another hobby I have is 3d printing and assembling objects and items that I can use around the house. This requires attention to detail, trial and error, and learning from instructions and my mistakes - all of which are needed in construction trades.

Pipe Welding Proficiency:

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I spent 4 years in the Marine Corps where I learned how to respond to hazmat incidents, included among this was training on confined space, rope rescue techniques, and patient packaging and extraction. I also learned how to maintain and inventory equipment and chemical protective suits. Along with maintenance was the inventory and storage of gear in a warehouse worth over 3 million dollars. I also spent a combined 2.5 years working at the Village of Whitefish Bay Department of Public Works. Here I learned how to operate heavy equipment/trucks, use all sorts of power and hand tools, pour and finish concrete, maintain and clean equipment, and lift heavy things.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

The reason why I am interested in the building trades is because I really enjoy manual labor and being in dirty or challenging environments. This combined with critical thinking and learning draws me to plumbing, a career I want to develop and grow in. Plumbing is a vital trade for all infrastructure and is the key to modern civilization, which is why it interests me. I like problem solving and working with my hands at the same time. Plumbing will allow me to think on the job, create and build new things that people will use, and let me take pride in my work. These are the reasons why I am interested in a career in plumbing.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Apprenticeship is attractive to me because I will be able to learn the trade hands on, under a journeyman; this type of learning is what I do best. Apprenticeship also allows me to get paid to learn the trade of plumbing while working the job. It is also a pathway into the career and brotherhood for life, one that I can continue to learn and grow in.

Working in factories has taught me skills in following safety procedures, making sure things are done right that way nobody around you gets hurt. It has also taught me to become detail oriented when it comes to projects and everyday work, as well as independence while working.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have family in the trades who have always talked highly of the trades, friends of the family who highly recommended getting into plumbing. Working at dead end factories since I was 19 has also given me a drive to push myself and learn some kind of trade!

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is an attractive option for me because of the constant need for having people who can build and fix things. No matter what goes on in life they will always need people who can get things up and running and I wanna be one of those guys!

Although I have not much experience doing construction work I have lent a hand whenever possible with home renovation projects among family and I love working with my hands. I am extremely eager to learn a skill which I can put to use to build a stable career which i can grow with, work I can be proud of when I come home everyday, and something where I can support myself moving forward in life.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Plumbing appeals to me because it's a hands-on profession that directly impacts people's lives. There's a real sense of accomplishment in troubleshooting and resolving plumbing issues, knowing that you're providing essential services that ensure health and comfort. The trade also offers continuous learning opportunities, with evolving technologies and methods that keep the job interesting. Beyond the technical aspects, plumbing provides a stable career path with the potential for good income and the chance to be self-employed, making it a fulfilling and secure choice.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship offers hands-on experience, job-specific skills, and a clear path to a well-paying career without needing a traditional degree, I like to learn off of others who have experience in this field

Hobbies that I do consist of working a regular part time job on weekends and when I can after school. I try to be as consistent as I can in the gym to keep myself disciplined. To build discipline I joined the wrestling team. Although the season is over, I learned a lot of skills that are transferrable to construction trades. Patience, discipline, being coachable/trainable. I keep my grades high and hold myself accountable. My work ethic is excellent due to the rigorous class work I receive. I believe that these activities boost my skills transferrable to construction trades.

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I have had retail jobs in which my social skills have been boosted and are transferrable to the pipe trades. One summer I pressure washed houses and concrete for long hours. I am no stranger to long hours or overtime, my work ethic is better than most which is very transferrable to the trades. While in the pressure washing job, I did door-to-door which also increased my social skills.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I like to work with my hands. I feel that college will not be for me and do not want to waste my time trying if I know I will not like it. I have always liked to be a hands-on type of person and earning while learning sounds even better. Working with my father laying carpet at a young age opened me up to building trades. I want to construct reliable and honest work.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

It is a secure job. It is a job that will be needed forever. I love the idea of being paid to learn rather than pay to learn. I believe that with the apprenticeship many more jobs will open up as well. It is a career that will benefit me in some way or another. Although highly competitive, the apprenticeship is there for the long run.

Plumbing called to me because it is a trade that will always be needed. It will never go out of business and will always have jobs. The money called to me, too. The thought of being able to provide clean drinking water or clean water in general after my family received a letter in the mailbox saying that there was lead in our drinking water inspired

Ive been around the drywall works, where you learn to measure and cut which can be applicable to the pipe trades to fit them correctly and get the job done.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

What really interests me in being in a trade is the way I can develop skills that I'll need in the future. The skills I learn can also be applied to help & assist others. The competitive pay is also a big factor, helping me feel what a start of a successful career feels like. This would also help me develop physically to be able to handle any type of work load that comes my way.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

It's an attractive option to me because I get to earn while learning the basics and develop a strong understanding of the trade from there & on. It really sticks out to me due to it being a really good head start to a successful career for my future. I can live with a job I enjoy and afford the necessities to a comfortable lifestyle.

Plumbing specifically catches my attention because every little detail matters and the high demand for it. Plumbing could be beneficial for me whenever I need help in my home or when family/friends need assistance as well. It helps with making sure the water & waste disposal are clean giving people a healthy lifestyle. Plumbing is just a great way to develop problem solving skills and meet new people.

Outside of work, I enjoy a variety of hobbies that help me stay balanced and energized. Traveling is one of my favorite ways to experience new cultures, meet different kinds of people, and gain fresh perspectives — all of which help me stay open-minded and adaptable in both my personal and professional life. I also enjoy watching movies, which is a great way to relax and take in different stories and ideas. It helps me unwind after a long day and sometimes even inspires creative ways to approach challenges. I also spend time playing video games and hanging out with friends, both of which help me stay sharp and social. Video games challenge my problem-solving skills and quick thinking, while spending time with people keeps me connected and improves my communication skills — something that's especially useful on the job when working as part of a team or dealing with customers. These hobbies not only help me maintain

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've always been interested in hands-on work that allows me to see the direct results of my efforts, which is what initially drew me to the building trades. I enjoy solving problems, working with tools, and being physically active on the job — all things that are central to the trades. I also appreciate the stability and long-term career opportunities that come with mastering a skilled trade. The idea of building or repairing something that people rely on every day, and knowing I contributed to that, gives me a strong sense of purpose and satisfaction. Specifically, plumbing caught my attention because it combines technical knowledge with real-world problem-solving in a way that directly impacts people's lives. Plumbing systems are essential to every home and business, and becoming a plumber means being

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

A plumbing apprenticeship is an attractive option for me because it offers the opportunity to learn a valuable trade through hands-on experience while earning a living. This is the first I will be learning about how to be a plumber and I am very much excited. This is a new journey for me.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I'm interested in plumbing because I like working with my hands and figuring things out. I've always been the kind of person who likes to fix stuff, whether it's around the house or helping friends and family. Plumbing seems like a job where I can use those skills every day and actually help people. I think it would feel good to know I'm doing something useful that others really need.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is a great option for me because I learn best by doing. I like the idea of getting real hands-on experience while learning from someone who knows the trade. What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've always loved working with my hands and when it came to college or work I got straight into the work force. I started building fences, landscaping, running machines, dirt work, etc. in Arkansas when I was 18. I worked my tail off and so when I had turned 19 I became a crew lead for my company. Since then I have made my way to Oklahoma doing Residential New Construction Planning and I love it. I pays good, it keeps you in shape, I constantly tests you mentally, and I'm up for the challenge! Working alongside family also strengthened my teamwork and communication skills, which I know are important in the construction trades. These experiences made me realize how much I enjoy this type of work and motivated me to pursue plumbing as a career where I can continue learning and developing my skills

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I've learned a lot of skills that I believe apply directly to the pipe trades through both personal and work experience. On the personal side, I've helped my family with bathroom remodeling projects where I installed toilets and showers and changed out sink faucets. That gave me a basic understanding of plumbing systems and hands-on practice using tools, measuring, and problem-solving on the spot.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

From a work perspective, my time at Harley-Davidson as a production technician and CNC operator taught me how to work with precision tools, follow technical drawings, and pay close attention to detail. It also reinforced the importance of safety, teamwork, and staying consistent in producing high-quality results.

I've always been interested in the trades because I like working with my hands, solving problems, and seeing the results of my work. I also grew up around grandfather who worked in the trades, so from a young age I saw the pride they took in their work and That made a big impression on me.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Apprenticeship is attractive to me because it offers a clear, stable career path. In the past, I've experienced being laid off, and that uncertainty made me realize how important it is to have steady work and a trade that's always in demand. Plumbing is an essential service that people rely on every day, which means there will always be opportunities for

Plumbing, specifically, stood out to me because it combines both technical skill and problem-solving. Knowing that my work directly impacts people's quality of life, while also building a stable career I can be proud of for my own family, is what really motivates me; working at harley I learned that skills trades will always be more valuable than your hourly wage because knowledge is the key to a successful life.

I enjoy working with my hands and have always said that my hobby is work, because completing difficult and complex tasks is genuinely satisfying to me. Currently, I'm a Millwright Apprentice with hands on experience in a range of mechanical systems. I've completed approximately 100 hours of pipefitting and steamfitting work, specifically on exhaust and pneumatic systems, which I've really enjoyed and hope to do more of in the future. I've had some experience with lubrication systems, including cutting, bending, and setting up lube tubes. While my exposure in this area has been limited so far, I'm eager to continue developing my skills and taking on more responsibility in these kinds of technical, hands-on tasks.

In this role, I've been responsible for installing, repairing, and maintaining a wide range of industrial equipment. My work has included hands on experience with exhaust systems, lubrication systems, hydraulics, welding, and pneumatics. I've completed approximately 100 hours of pipefitting and steamfitting work primarily on pneumatic and exhaust systems with likely more time accumulated through day to day tasks.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I want to have a career in plumbing because it would offer me a strong foundation for personal and professional growth. Plumbing provides a valuable skill set that is always in demand, which gives me confidence in long-term job security. The opportunity to earn an amazing pay and receive excellent benefits makes plumbing a great choice for myself. One of the most appealing aspects of becoming a plumber is the potential for a better learning environment and a more structured path to becoming a skilled professional.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because it allows me to learn directly from experienced tradespeople. I'm currently in an apprenticeship and really value the hands on learning that comes from being in the field, Learning from people who've spent years mastering their trade is something I deeply respect, and I try to absorb as much as I can

I value the idea of working with experienced individuals who are willing to mentor and train apprentices. Unlike my current employment, plumbing appears to offer a more consistent and supportive journey through the apprenticeship process, and I see that as

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've always been drawn to hands-on work where I can see the results of my efforts. The building trades offer a combination of physical skill, problem-solving, and long-term career stability, which really appealed to me. Plumbing, in particular, stood out because it plays such a critical role in public health and infrastructure. I enjoy the challenge of diagnosing and solving issues, and I appreciate that plumbing offers a clear path for learning and growth—whether through apprenticeship, licensure, or eventually running my own business. It's a career where I can build expertise, contribute to my community, and have real opportunities for advancement.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I like that an apprenticeship gives me the chance to earn while I learn. I've always enjoyed hands-on work like fixing cars and doing repairs, so this feels like the best way to build real skills on the job and grow into a career in the trades.

My great grandfather became a plumber and started his own plumbing company after WWII. Two of his sons joined him in the plumbing trade. You could say that it is in my blood. I understand the need for skilled tradespeople will always be great and I like having that sense of security. I worked extremely hard my entire academic career and will use the skills I learned in my senior year in the tech ed classes I took to become the best apprentice I can be. I look forward to learning and growing.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is a great opportunity to learn hands on from someone in the actual trade with first hand knowledge and life experience. A college lecture can give you information, but being able to apply that information in real time, as you learn, is a valuable learning option.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

What really interested me in having a trade for a career is that hand on nature of everything and being able to learn an important skill to get me far in life. I always been someone who's enjoying problems solving, working with tools and seeing results of my work.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I the type of person who learn stuff by being hands on and being shown. I felt like apprenticeship would be best for me because I can get best in both world as being hand on and getting paid and also dealing with little being in books

I'm interested in plumbing because I want to learn how complex systems work behind the scenes and how to repair and maintain them efficiently. Plumbing also offers the chance for long-term growth, whether it's becoming a licensed journeyman, starting my own business, or specializing in advanced systems.

My main hobby at the moment is working on cars. I enjoy after work or an off day just to relax and do regular maintenance or upgrade the internals/performance parts. I think this translates well because I'll be very motivated to learn while working in a career that's ever advancing and technical.

I have a full time job and on the side I work with my dad on construction. The most recent job we did was on a houses draining system. I learned how to replace/fix a sub pump and we dug up and trenched the whole perimeter of the basement to make sure the water flows correctly to get drained. while digging sometimes you find previous work that was done wrong from either the house owner or a different person they hired. In our case the water was getting clogged in the basement walls and wasn't traveling out which can be dangerous. So we made holes in the bottom of the walls to drain the water and made sure the path of the water was slightly downhill so it was able to run smoothly to the sub pump.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

My uncle is a plumber and he was telling me about the amazing opportunity it was and suggested that I should give it a try. He went through this exact program many years ago and expressed how it changed his life forever in the best way. Hearing that I got intrigued and began to do my own research, I've always loved doing hands on jobs and my best subject in school was always math and this trade seemed like it was a combination of those two things. Overall I think this is what I've been looking for, in my past and still to this day I try to find jobs that just pay decent but are temporary, with plumbing it doesn't seem like a job it seems like a career with a future.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

To be honest the pay while you learn part is what initially sold me. Because the exact opposite is what drove me out of college in the first place. I started losing motivation in college when everything was coming out of my pocket and I had the stress of working late nights just to pay for something I probably wasn't going to pursue. The

I work at a assisted living facility for seniors at the moment. In order to have this job I have to possess very high patience and tolerance towards the seniors. This can be transferrable to the construction trades due to having to talk and communicate with other people that think differently from you. If i'm working with a group of people with different ideas I can tolerate and come to agreements, and not get into a argument. I also make music as a hobby. To make music you constantly have to come up with new ideas. You also have to constantly learn if you want to get better. This is transferable to the construction trades because most of the time you are solving problems on the job and have to come up with new ideas and adapt. you are also constantly learning from these problems and have to remember the solutions.

The first job I ever had was working at McDonalds. I thought it would be easy but I was wrong. It can get very busy very fast and having to be able to work under pressure is a must. Also being able to communicate with your coworkers is a must if anything is going to get done. Plus dealing with customers that are clearly wrong and having to maintain you composure is essential. These skills I feel are very applicable to the pipe trades due to working with other people most of the time and working with customers or clients that aren't in good moods.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I first got interested in the trades when I had my first wood shop in highschool. I liked the hands on work required for the class. I also just like to move around in general I don't want to work an office job and sit in one place all day. I first got interested in plumbing due to the school hosting a job fair and a plumbing company introduced me to the basics and I was very interested.

The trades are also a very stable career path and have very strong job security with a high demand. Due to problem solving and helping others I feel like this line of work can be very fulfilling to me.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is an attractive option for me because, I feel watching someone with a lot more experience than you is one of the fastest and most efficient ways to learn something. I believe this because if you have a question someone is right there to answer your question. Plus you can also pick up on the little things that make the person your

In my past jobs as a flagger and an ecological restoration technician, I've developed several skills that apply directly to the pipe trades. As a flagger, I learned to stay alert, follow strict safety protocols, and communicate clearly with a team in high-risk environments. In restoration, I have worked outdoors in all weather conditions, used various tools and equipment, and followed detailed instructions to complete tasks. Both roles taught me the importance of being reliable, working hard by myself and as a team, and staying focused.

I'm interested in pursuing a career in the building trades, particularly plumbing, because I've always been drawn to hands-on work, problem-solving, and understanding how things function. Plumbing plays a vital role in everyday life, and I'm motivated by the opportunity to provide solutions that have a direct, positive impact on people's homes and communities.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I believe an apprenticeship is the best path because it offers hands-on experience while allowing me to earn and learn at the same time. It provides the opportunity to work directly with experienced tradespeople, build practical skills on real job sites, and gain a deep understanding of the trade. I'm confident that starting with an apprenticeship will

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always been interested in trades as I know they are a job that will never go away, trades are one area of work that a computer cannot do. As well as I know there is a lot of opportunity in the trades when it comes to growth in the job, and even establishing yourself in an industry and creating something of your own from it. What interests me most about plumbing is that I have always seen plumbers in and out of houses working hard and providing necessary solutions to problems that occur in everyday life as well as being able to make something of themselves and provide for their families which I want to be able to do above all else.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Apprenticeship is an attractive option to me because I can not only provide and focus on my goals while learning, but it puts me right into the hot seat learning from the best and gives me time to perfect my craft on something I really want to be good at.

I like rebuilding small engines. This is a hobby that started with my own personally broken lawnmower. I inherited a "junk" chainsaw. Then another. Pretty soon I had half a garage full of old, unloved implements. I didn't know anything about them, thinking I would scrap them. Then I got to tearing them down and noting the patterns of wear. I created a list of common faults and procedures on how to fix those common faults. Now I do a lot of rebuilding, some for personal satisfaction, some for profit, but all for fun. This transfers to the trades, because like what I said about plumbing before, fixing small engines are deceptively simple. They also are taken for granted. Many people don't have the patience to fix them, and they just expect them to work - a lot like how plumbing is perceived.

I was very interested in learning more about the backflow preventers, sprinklers, and drains they sell, but more importantly, HOW they're installed!

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Even though I do not have the trade experience, I do have experience working as a team where everyone has a different skill level. This I'm sure is positive to be applicable to the trade jobs. I will be first the least-experienced person on the job. It is part of my drive as

The pipe trades are a good outlet for my desire to work with my hands and physically make work come to life. I have "driven" a desk for close to a decade and that aspect of the job never materialized in the way it does in the trades. My Grandfather was an electrician and he created a lot of opportunities to bond with me over how to build things. He showed me how to take pride in the work I created with my hands. Without him, I would not have the aptitude or desire to continue pursuing a trade for the benefit of providing for a family.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship provides a high-quality foundation for a stable career. It's the first place to start in a trades career. It prevents me from learning things "wrong" only to unlearn them later. I should have pursued this career straight out of high school but overlooked the professionalism inherent in the building trades. I didn't come to

Throughout my work experience, I have developed several skills that relate to the pipe trades. As a pallet builder and general production laborer, I became comfortable using hand and power tools, measuring materials accurately, and working efficiently in a fast-paced environment. My time as a line production worker taught me the importance of precision, teamwork, and following safety protocols crucial aspects of the plumbing trade. Additionally, as a table games dealer, I've strengthened my problem solving, attention to detail, and ability to work under pressure, all of which will help me succeed in a plumbing apprenticeship.

One of my hobbies that relates to the construction trades is working on small home improvement projects. I enjoy fixing things around the house, whether it's assembling furniture, patching walls, or helping with minor repairs. I also like learning about different tools and techniques by watching videos and reading about construction and plumbing projects. This hands on interest has reinforced my passion for the trades and my desire to pursue a career in plumbing.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Apprenticeship is important to me because it provides a direct path to a stable and rewarding career in a skilled trade. Well I haven't taken them yet but I will be taking a program that is mainly focused on the trades. I do work at a place where it does require a lot of patience from the co workers to the customers. But not once have I ever received a complaint that I was acting up or had an attitude towards them. Additionally, my managers from the establishment said from the start that I am a fast learner and the good thing about that is that I follow their rules and instructions. Outside of work I don't really have many hobbies that correlate to construction trades.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I am interested in a career in the building trades because I like having to work with my hands, I like having to move around and do something to keep me from doing nothing. Working with my hands requires concentration and patience. Concentration can improve the way I think and helps with the brain to process things better. Patience is something that you need in every workplace, you need to be patient with what you're working with. Not being able to keep still is a great thing. I could get the work done faster but this isn't a competition on who gets it done faster, it's about how efficiently you did the work and if it properly works. With plumbing you get to see yourself get the work done. You see an immediate impact on your work and that, to me, is satisfying. That is one of the reasons why I chose to pursue and gain more knowledge on plumbing. The other trades didn't leak

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is an attractive option for me because I had always thought about doing something related with construction. When teachers and family members would ask if I wanna go to college I would say, "I'm not sure nothing really has me interested from college." It wasn't until it was brought upon me from my school that the option for

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I had worked with a plumber when I was younger. He loved my work ethic and wanted to work with me to become a licensed plumber. He said he could have me test out in two years ! That was a while back and I still work with him but I employ him on projects. As a project manager and expediter I frequently have to plumb fixtures, toilets and as a tile contractor I have installed my own shower Valves and trim kits.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have worked in the construction industry for the past 7 years as a project manager. Plumbing has specifically interested me because it presents unique challenges at each job.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I have family members in the trades. They tell me even though I haven't been professionally trained that I would be a good fit and it would benefit my family. I have always been a jack of all trades but I'd like to become a something I can be proud of knowing I am a professional.
