What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always wanted a genuine career where I can use my mind and apply what I have been taught. Being able to be counted on means a lot and I told myself at the beginning of the year I was going to bet on me and now we're here. Plumbing is so vital yet overlooked in my eyes and I have always wanted to learn the ins and outs so I wouldnt have to constantly ask someone else to do it.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I love learning and having the ability to be compensated while learning a life changing skill is the cherry on top. Being able to look back and say "I fixed or built that" or installed that just brings a smile to my face. I genuinely enjoy learning and applying what I have learned, being nicely compensated for it just adds to it.

As a Class A CDL driver, I transported construction materials to active job sites, performed daily equipment inspections, followed strict safety procedures, and worked around construction crews and heavy equipment. As a Residential Property Manager, I coordinated building maintenance and repairs with contractors, strengthening my problem-solving, communication, and teamwork skills. These experiences have prepared me for the physical demands, safety expectations, and collaborative environment of the pipe trades.

One of my biggest interests is learning new skills that help me grow personally and professionally. I enjoy participating in training programs, researching new industries, and continuing my education to prepare for future career opportunities. My enrollment in the WRTP | BIG STEP Construction Pre-Apprenticeship Program reflects that commitment. I also enjoy tackling hands-on projects, solving practical problems, and learning how systems work, which has strengthened my attention to detail and my ability to think critically. Outside of work, I stay active and enjoy spending time outdoors, which has helped me develop the physical endurance and adaptability needed for demanding work environments.

I also enjoy mentoring and helping others through my business consulting work, where I

What Interested You in Plumbing?

What first attracted me to the building trades was the opportunity to build a career that creates something meaningful while continuously developing new skills. Throughout my career, I've worked in several industries, including commercial trucking, residential property management, and business consulting. Those experiences introduced me to construction environments, building maintenance, and the importance of skilled trades in keeping homes, businesses, and communities operating safely. I discovered that I enjoy hands-on work, solving problems, working as part of a team, and seeing the results of a job well done. After enrolling in the WRTP | BIG STEP Construction Pre-Apprenticeship Program, my interest in the skilled trades grew even stronger because I could see the long-term career opportunities and the pride that comes with mastering a trade.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because it provides the opportunity to earn a living while learning a skilled trade from experienced professionals. I value hands-on learning and believe that combining classroom instruction with real jobsite experience is the best way to build the knowledge, confidence, and skills needed for a successful career. I sometimes ask myself that same question honestly and I always come up with my solving an issue most people would not dare to try in fix right away. I'm a critical thinker that get the enjoyment of figuring out the issue right away, hands on jobs is my thing and working at a steady pace not behind a desk. Plumbing offers immediate physical impact it reminds me of solving a puzzle in away and each puzzle is different and also its an excellent trait and financial stability. I would get to learn something I enjoy and still get paid .

I played soccer since kindergarten all the way to my senior year in high school. Soccer taught me teamwork, communication and the ability to work towards a common goal, which is essential on the construction site. It taught me discipline, reliability and a strong work ethic through regular practices and commitment. I learned to think quickly, problem solve under pressure, follow instructions and adapt to changing situations. In addition soccer improved my physical fitness, coordination, endurance and spatial awareness, all of which can be valuable when performing hands on construction work safely and efficiently.

I have seen some plumbers doing certain tasks like installing sinks and sweating copper pipes by using flux. It was very interesting to watch. I have seen some steps on how to install a trench drain.

My whole high school career and even now I've dedicated myself to sports like MMA, wrestling, and weight lifting. I learned many valuable skills from being involved in such activities. For example, doing MMA and wrestling I needed a high level of discipline to partake in those activities due to the strenuous weight cuts and competitions. I believe you need discipline in the field because there are very early start times and each day is different so being prepared for what is to come is very important and not letting things break you down. Of course weightlifting has provided me with the knowledge on how to make explosive movements in a way where I don't hurt myself. Weightlifting has also prepared me for the field by making me all around stronger and confident.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Right now I work as a Construction Wireman. Being apart of a company that offers both plumbing and electrical I thankfully get to work with both sides. At first I wasn't interested in plumbing, it wasn't until I had seen what plumbing all entailed, did I start to become interested in it. I started asking the journey and apprentices more about their day to day tasks and realized this is something I was interested in pursuing. I am familiar with some of what the trade entails but I would love to have the opportunity to learn more and grow in the field with an apprenticeship opportunity.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I love staying busy, learning, growing, and being around like minded people. I've worked on jobs outside and I love being in that environment. I also enjoy the community at job sites as well. This gives me an opportunity to step foot in a CAREER, and I do take that very seriously.

I've only ever had one job which has been at the Taco Bell near where I live. It may have no connection to any trade attributes but it certainly helped me with working in a team I got along with each and every coworker, along with giving me experience with the good and the bad customers that I had to serve everyday.

I did have lots of general trade experience when I participated in the dual-enrollment program at WCTC. As it isn't a job it still definitely helped me get a good grasp of every major trade along with helping me get a better insight of how the trades function.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I wanted to go straight into the workforce because I wanted to start working full time as soon as possible, along with the fact that I would not want to sit in college for four years majoring in something that would not benefit or be interesting to me. I also wasn't very excited for the "college experience" or the massive amount of debt that I would have

I had taken classes at WCTC for general trades which I really enjoyed to do, so much that I wanted to do things around the house like re-doing our deck, or even building a chicken coop just because of how much I liked the wooden framing aspect of construction.

I also like staying very physically fit for someone my age. I go to the gym at least every other day, and when I am there I like to train until complete failure. I believe my physical will definitely help me with any hands on trade I do.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I was first interested in the building trades because I liked doing physical work, or working with my hands in general, also because I didn't have any idea what I wanted to do if I had gone to college. I was scared of ending up like my oldest sister who jumped straight into college with no plan, and ended up dropping out of college as an art major after three years with no degree to show for it.

I wanted to specifically become a plumber because almost every other student at my trade school wanted to go into electrical, and I thought that trying to go into a trade that everyone else wants to go into would not only be way harder, but also defeats the purpose of trying to fill a shortage. I don't have a problem with doing any type of work, especially

I worked the past 2 summers doing landscaping, so I have experience with being tough with my hands and turning something ugly into something functional. And I have experience working in a trade like environment. From my dual enrollment program, we have worked on many projects outside of school for the community, improving many skills needed for this trade.

I have been working out for a couple years now, so for all the physical activity that needs to be done, i'm the right guy. I've been a hard worker since I was young. My dad owned many restaurants so I learned how hard work and dedication pay off. I was 13 when Covid happened, I wasn't able to do much outside the house so I decided to help my neighbors. I went door to door explaining what skills I had to offer, and for the next 2 years I helped my neighbors with dog walking/sitting, and other basic things they needed done. I got my first officially job once I turned 14, which was in the fast food industry. And ever since then I have been a hard worker trying to help out my family

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I was introduced to the trades about 2 years ago from my uncles. They are both handyman and initially got me interested in the trades based on the work they do. So I decided to take construction classes at my high school, and that's when my interest for the trades grew. Each unit in class was a different trade we specialized in, besides welding. And ever since then I have been very interested in joining the trades. I also tried getting a youth apprenticeship for the past 2 years in a plumbing company, but had no luck. But I want to pursue plumbing and eventually have a career within that trade

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Because I think it's a great opportunity for me to really understand and learn the trade that interests me the most and I've heard a lot of great things about this program

I enjoy working on home projects and fixing things around the house. These hobbies, along with my experience working in a warehouse, have taught me problem-solving, attention to detail, and how to use tools safely and effectively-skills that are directly useful in construction trades like plumbing.

I also like staying active and working out, which helps me maintain strength and endurance for physically demanding work.

Team sports, volunteer projects, and my warehouse experience have improved my teamwork and communication skills, which are essential for working well on job sites.

If you want, I can also make a shorter, punchy

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I want to become a plumber because I enjoy working with my hands and solving practical problems. I need a career that offers stable work and a stable income, and plumbing is a trade that is always in demand.

Plumbing also provides opportunities to learn new skills, grow professionally, and help people every day. I am committed to completing training and building a long-term career that gives both personal satisfaction and security.

If you want, I can make it even more concise

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because it allows me to learn hands-on skills while earning money. I like that I can gain real experience, build a long-term career, and grow professionally at the same time.

I was working down in Texas for a few months in construction. There I was training and given a dose of what working in construction really was like. It was early and tough days but every day was a learning experience. Giving me an insight to what a long and hard days worth of work was gave me a different perspective and a different angle to look at life with. It was something I can see myself doing.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Due to my previous experience in construction I felt as though it was my calling to pick up a trade. I work better moving my body and really working at a problem rather than just thinking about it.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I would say that the apprenticeship is an attractive option because of the opportunities that it could give me. Down the road I could perhaps make my own business or rise up in a company directing my own crew. A lot of things can come about and the apprenticeship is just the first step towards that. Earning while you learn sounds really good too.

I have been working at a bar for 6 years. I do not have many skills from the job that pertain to pipe trades, specifically to the work portion. The skills that can pertain to the trade are excellent communication, not only to co-workers but to the customers as well. The ability to keep an organized and clean area, making sure the bar is all together and clean. The other skill is being able to provide excellent service promptly while still providing quality drinks to the customer.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

The apprenticeship catches my eye mainly because it is not only classroom learning, but it is hands-on learning as well. Earning while you learn is important, as well as being able to get paid while learning the trade. The ability to be able to learn from master plumbers and contractors who have been in the trade for a long time and have experience to offer.

Tell Us About Any Relevant Hobbies:

Some of my hobbies include reading, building with Legos, shooting at the range with friends, bowling, and playing basketball. Reading and building Legos are important towards the construction trades because reading and comprehension are important in general, and to understand what you are to do on a job site or repair. The building of Legos shows how being able to build something while following directions perfectly to achieve completion in a timely manner. My other hobbies involve a lot of communication, shown through basketball or shooting with my friends. The importance of shooting with friends at the range shows how to follow safety instructions precisely which will also be the case on a job site.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

The interest in the trades originally comes from my friends and family who are in the trades. I was in college and did not know what I wanted to major in. I was struggling and dropped out of college. I am a hands-on learner and like to learn by doing. This is where I thought that going into trades would be right for me. I would specifically want to be in the plumbing trade because the work is always evolving. There will always be something to do, and not a job where sitting around is a normal occurrence. I believe I am a hard worker and that plumbing is the career path for me

I also did snow removal in the winter. Prior to that In high school I worked as a karate instructor, a fast food employee, and a stocker at a hardware store.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've worked as a decorative concrete finisher and led a small crew for several years. I've always enjoyed working with my hands and complex problem solving. I recently decided that I would like to change things up and pursue a different career path. I've been researching different unions/trades for the past two weeks as well as asking my friends about their experience working in different trades. I've heard nothing but good things about plumbing and our local union. I'm looking forward to exploring this new opportunity.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I got interested in the building trades from my dad. I learned all sorts of things by working with him in the field as a mason. I like working with my hands and seeing what I can build with my hands. Plumbing interests me because if our country didn't have plumbers our country would be a mess. Our world revolves around plumbing and I find it interesting on how it works.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Getting into an apprenticeship is a great thing for a person to do. It teaches one about plumbing and the exact details of how it works. Also learning on the job is important and I feel that being in the field being hands on helps out with retaining knowledge.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I am currently an electrician with about a year of experience. While I don't mind being an electrician, after being around plumbers and watching what they do, I'm more interested in the work they do rather than mine. Although both jobs are considered dangerous, an electrician can be shocked in an instant and it could be at the fault of someone else's work.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Earn while you learn is a big plus. I would like to learn in school and then the next day be able to use what I have just learned and incorporate that into the work I am doing

Apprenticeship wise, I like the structure of the plumbers apprenticeship over the electrician apprenticeship. After talking to your business agent at your union, I was told that you can only be a pre apprentice for only a year and that you accept apprentices year round.

I also love to play Vr simulation games. There are games that literally let you pick a trade and give u a real life problem to fix with all the tools required. It is very useful in the trades because they walk you through step by step and with real tools, for any situation you may come across.

I've done 2 major projects with Gorman and Nuemann's plumbing/heating and cooling. My first project was an old school building we remodeled into apartments. That required me to learn how to dig trenches , haul waste, organize the site, and work well in a group. I also was shown how to lay and level pipes. I was with this project beginning to end. And I learned a lot.

The second building we completed was for the same companies, but we remodeled the old Edison middle school building. The job entitled a lot of the same things as the first but I was entrusted with more duties. To hang hangers. crimp. organize. pull gas lines.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I would love to obtain an apprenticeship for many reasons. First off it would be a great sense of accomplishment. Second it would solidify the years of working with plumbing and projects that I've already done. And lastly I could see it really brightening my future.

What originally got me into the trades was watching my uncle work as maintenance for apartments as a kid. I eventually grew old enough to help and learn certain things. But as I grew older I realized I really liked working with my hands and completing a project. I used to fix the clogged sinks and toilets in our family home, that led into me wanting to learn how the systems worked. And I decided when I was 21 to take the leap into trade classes at WRTP Big Step which led me into 2 years of plumbing, working with Gorman and Nuemann plumbing on 2 big projects. Ever since I been determined to further my career in plumbing.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I work as an automotive technician and am not sure of it as a career. While I very much enjoy learning to diagnose and repair things, the industry and career are not helpful with these things and the potential to earn is decreasing. Also, I see similarities between automotive and plumbing, so it is why I am inquiring about it as a career. In addition, the union education and benefits are extremely enticing to me.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I believe the plumbing union offers the best education and rigorous training in becoming your best self during apprenticeship. I believe this makes the process of becoming a journeyman plumber much more streamlined and successful. The opportunity to work with someone with a lot of experience is attractive to help succeed during the program.

I have worked at a greenhouse for three summers potting plants, taking care of them, and shipping them. I have worked for an elderly woman doing odd jobs around her property for the last six years. And this last summer I did concrete, mainly framing and pouring driveways and patios.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Growing up I have always loved working with my hands. Ever since I was twelve I have found ways to do that. The first job I had, I worked for an elderly woman doing odd jobs around her house, such as cutting grass, building gardens, cutting down trees and much more. I have also worked at a greenhouse for three summers and have done residential concrete for one Summer. I became interested in plumbing specifically because it is a stable job that can't be replaced. The union has great benefits, and when I job shadowed a plumber I had a lot of fun doing it.

Even though I haven't had a job directly related to the pipe trades yet, I have worked in jobs where I gained skills that connect well to this type of work. For example, when I worked roofing, I learned how to safely use ladders, carry heavy materials, and work outside in different weather conditions. Roofing also taught me to pay attention to safety, use tools correctly, and stay focused while working at heights. These experiences helped me build physical strength, balance, and confidence on the job, which are all valuable in the construction and plumbing trades.

I also developed important skills through my work in kitchens and customer service. At Forage Kitchen, Joe's K Ranch, and St. Paul's Fish CO. I learned how to manage time, work

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is an attractive option to me because it allows me to learn while earning money at the same time. Instead of going into debt or paying for a traditional college program, I can start working right away, build experience and start a path to a career right away. I don't like the idea that I would have to go to a 2 or 4 year college

One of my main hobbies is playing soccer. I grew up playing soccer which has actually taught me a lot that transfers to construction trades. Soccer has helped me develop teamwork, communication, and discipline because you have to work with other players, stay focused, and push through tough situations. It has also taught me how to manage time well, handle pressure, and keep a strong work ethic. These same skills are important on job sites, where people have to cooperate, stay organized, and solve problems quickly and safely.

Outside of sports, I've also gained real construction experience through roofing. Working in roofing showed me the importance of safety, physical work, and paying attention to detail. Retail has helped me develop customer service, patience, and problem-solving skills because I had to talk to customers and handle different situations. Even when I have

What Interested You in Plumbing?

To be honest, every time I get asked this question I don't have a solid answer. Some people know they want to pursue plumbing because they have already worked in it or gained experience in the trade. For me, it all really all came down to my God Father. He runs his own HVAC company, and he has shown me how successful and rewarding this trade can be. Growing up, we often talked about my future and what career I might want. Whenever plumbing came up, he would tell me how good this trade is and the benefits of this career. When I told him it's something I would be interested in he was supportive and told me he thinks I would do great in this industry.

Another big reason I am interested in plumbing is because I want a career that is hands-

I also used to volunteer to repair Chromebooks/laptops for people, which has strengthened my precision, mechanical aptitude, and ability to read and interpret technical instructions.

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I haven't worked in a field related to pipe trades before, but in my role as a busser and server at a fine dining restaurant, I developed skills that are highly relevant. I learned to work efficiently under pressure, especially in a fast-paced environment, have great attention to detail, and solve problems quickly and efficiently, all while collaborating with a team. I was highly regarded in my workplace as a thoughtful employee with keen attention to detail who would help others without being asked to.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I'm interested in the building trades as it is a high-demand career in the digital age today, and I want to contribute towards seeing to people's everyday labor-work needs. I studied college for a degree in computer science, but I quickly realized that I need something that's hands-on and will keep me active since I am not someone who could feel satisfied sitting in one place.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I love the idea of learning on the job--it's a prospect I've always been attracted to and found to be the easiest way to learn things in general, especially because working on site, even while training, is far more fulfilling than spending 8 hours a day sitting in a classroom. The idea of getting paid to learn also makes the offer of apprentice work

I am looking towards plumbing specifically because of the combination of problem solving, mechanical work, and variety of tasks to take on; I'd find more fulfillment with the new problems to solve every day. I often take interest in analyzing how things work and would find myself taking things apart and putting them back together when I was

I've worked as a cart pusher at Woodman's and as a janitor at a nursing home, and both jobs taught me skills I can carry into the pipe trades. As a cart pusher, I got used to working hard in all kinds of weather and staying consistent no matter what, which helped build my work ethic. Working as a janitor taught me to pay attention to details, manage my time, and take responsibility for getting things done right without needing to be told every step. Both jobs showed me the importance of being reliable and doing your work the right way, and I think those habits will help me succeed in a trade like plumbing.

In my free time, I like going to the gym, reading, going to the shooting range, and listening to music, and each of these has helped me build skills that carry over into the construction trades. Working out has taught me discipline, consistency, and physical endurance, which are all important for hands-on work. Reading helps me stay focused and improves my ability to understand instructions and learn new techniques. Spending time at the shooting range has strengthened my attention to detail, patience, and safety awareness. Even listening to music helps me stay focused and keep a rhythm while working. Overall, these activities have helped me develop both the physical and mental habits needed to succeed in a trade like construction or plumbing.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've always liked working with my hands and actually seeing the results of what I do at the end of the day, which is what drew me to the trades. Sitting behind a desk all day never really appealed to me I'd rather be moving around, learning real skills, and being part of something that gets built from the ground up. I also like that the trades offer steady work and a chance to keep improving over time.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because it gives me the chance to learn by actually doing the work instead of just sitting in a classroom. I like the idea of earning money while gaining real experience and building skills that I can use long term. It also gives me the opportunity to learn from experienced professionals who can teach me the right way

Plumbing in particular stands out to me because it's such an important part of everyday life. When something goes wrong, it can really affect people, so being able to step in and fix the problem feels meaningful. I like that it's not just physical work it also takes thinking things through and figuring out solutions. It seems like a good balance of hands

What Interested You in Plumbing?

My father is a plumber, so I was exposed to the building trades at a young age. While I was in high school, I worked for JMBrennan in their warehouse and made deliveries to jobsites. I was exposed to what a mechanical contractor is and the types of work they perform. I then attended college for Construction Management and received my bachelor's degree. Most recently, I worked for the general contractor JPCullen as a Site Engineer. After two years, I realized that working on the office side didn't interest me as much as the field work did. I decided to leave the general contractor side and pursue a career in the mechanical trades.

Through martial arts, I learned the importance of discipline (physical and mental), integrity, hard work, and striving for growth. I believe all of these values translate well

I also have had several months of experience in warehouse management for a plumbing company. Just like food service this requires incredible attention to detail. Furthermore, willingness to learn from mistakes, learning to ask the right questions, and learning how to prioritize the needs of multiple members of one team, is essential for the day-to-day work of me and my team.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

During high school, my goal was to go to college and medical school. I wanted to serve others and solve problems, but realized quickly that I strongly disliked doing so from behind a desk.

As someone who teaches martial arts, I believe strongly in a "master-to-trainer" approach. It is my hope that I can learn, master, and eventually teach this trade to others through

After high school, I did a gap year program in Rhinelander where I learned that I vastly preferred moving and working with my hands to sitting and working at a desk. After moving back home, I sought employment at building trade companies to get as much exposure as possible to the trades.

Through my most recent job I was introduced to several different trades, plumbing being

I was struggling to figure out what I wanted to do. My husband is an ironworker for local 8 and suggested that I look into the trades. My husband knew another ironworker, whose wife just finished part of her apprenticeship. I called her and asked her many questions to gauge if this trade is meant for me. I found it!

I love being physically active and at the same time, using my brain. I also enjoy working solo and as a part of a team. I don't have much experience in construction but I went to MATC for the bricklaying program and graduated with scholastic honors. It just couldn't see myself doing that course of work long-term. What Interested You in Plumbing?

I am in a pre apprenticeship through the carpenters union at the moment, I've been in the field for a few months now and it just doesn't feel right for me so I've talked to many different people in different trades and what seems right for me is a career with the plumbers union

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I have known college was not my thing coming out of high school and my shop teacher introduced me to the skill trades early. On top of that I have loved the idea of being able to work in the field right away as I learn and get paid

I completed a plumbing apprenticeship program in the State of Texas and received my Tradesman license. I had approximately 7800 hours and was just shy of getting my Journeyman license. I was at the company for about 4 years.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

What interested me in plumbing was a desire to get into a trade where I could be hands-on and learn a valuable life skill. I also enjoyed the problem solving aspect of the job and that every day is something new and different.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I was in a plumbing apprenticeship program in another state and It was great way to learn the plumbing trade. I just recently moved to Wisconsin and would like to continue my training and get a Journeyman license in the State of Wisconsin.

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

I have not had jobs where I have learned skills applicable to the pipe trades. My work experience is primarily in corporate office settings.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have an interest in the building trades because of my life-long desire to work in a field where I am using my hands and mind together. I believe plumbing will be a strong fit for my personality because of my aptitude in mathematics and my fascination with how systems work. Due to my previous work experience in sales and my collegiate success, I have no doubts about my ability to learn quickly and be an effective member of a team. However, I have found my career in the professional work to be unrewarding and without enough movement. I believe the trades are the best way to combine my aptitude academically with my desire for regular movement and using practical skills.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because I have a wife and want to continue to provide for my family while developing the skills necessary for a new career.

I worked as a Machine Operator II for 2,5+ years. I operated machine straighteners and set them up, I also operated mills, furnace operations, cranes and overhead cranes. When I worked on setups, I had to measure pipes, I fitted components together, with tools like micrometers, adjustable wrenches, pipe wrenches, torque wrenches, pipe cutters, grinders and more. Skills that carry over to plumbing like pipe measuring, cutting, and fitting. I am comfortable working 12 hour shifts in demanding environments - hot, loud, unclean environments and I always enjoyed it. I have always been available to put in the extra hours when needed.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

It is one of my biggest dream goals to be a plumber. Another big dream goal of mine is to be with a Union. I enjoy working with my hands more than anything. I'm a dedicated and hardworking individual and have several years of hands-on experience in a tough industrial environment. I have experience with pipe fitting, pipe measuring, with tools like micrometers, wrenches, torque wrenches, pipe wrenches, pipe cutters, grinders and more. I have my Associates Degree which is nice but again, being in a Union is one of my biggest dream goals and what I plan on achieving in my life. I'm reliable, quick to learn, and ready to bring dedication, pipe-fitting experience, and hard work that I have shown every day on the job straight into this apprenticeship.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

Being a plumber and joining a union is my biggest dream goal in life and it is what I plan on achieving in my life. I love working with my hands more than anything. Short apprenticeship in a Carpentry shop
Currently working for a Dryer ventilation shop

My main hobbies include the gym, Dungeons and Dragons, and card games. The gym and fitness make sure to keep me physically fit especially for jobs that are as taxing on the body like many trades including plumbing. While things like Dungeons and Dragons and card games are good ways to test creative problem solving with no problems being the same, as well as being able to notice several solutions and choose which would be the best option.

And although not as common, I do some wood working. Namely I have built my own TV stand and coffee table among some other smaller side projects.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have grown up around tradesman my whole life (namely my father is a plumber) teaching me many hands on skills. I have always been more drawn to physical labor jobs then desk jobs, I think and work best on my feet. I have apprenticed in the trades before, mainly carpentry and I currently am working at a shop that installs dryer ventilation that, although not identical to running plumbing I do believe the skills could transfer.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

There are many ways that people like to learn, but for myself I have always learned better with boots on the ground and getting my hands dirty. I have found that apprenticeships are the best way for me to do that, I am someone who likes to ask alot of questions and really tries to understand the "why?" of why something is being done a certain way

I have to work in a team most of the time whether in the kitchen or front.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

As I went through highschool I could never really find myself working a 9-5 desk job. And my dad really opened my eyes to the trades. After a long search of what trade I wanted to pursue I landed on carpentry or plumbing. I landed on plumbing because not only is it a well payed trade but it will always be needed in the new wave of AI. In addition I feel like I could learn a lot of helpful life long lessons and abilities through a plumbing apprenticeship.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always had an interest in building trades but took the college route instead. I want to do more physical/tangible work which is more fulfilling than the sales and accounting I've been doing. I'm an older applicant at 46 years old but I am physically fit and active and have no doubt I can keep up with the work.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

A structured, formatted and paid program is much more interesting than a "catch as catch can" environment.

I have always played video games, and I feel that transfers into plumbing due to the problem solving and precise skills you need to advance. I also enjoy participating in sports and also feel that this is useful to a construction trade due to being on your feet for long periods of time and using your muscles and proper body mechanics to lift and place equipment.

I have worked in construction with my father building drywall, roofing, painting, and flooring. I had a previous job at Menards sorting and showing customers to different building materials like piping and different lumbar pieces.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

My father built his own construction company and has been in the construction business for over 10 years. This started my interest in the building industry. I specifically find piping and electrical very interesting and would love to make a career out of something that I won't lose interest in.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I learn best by hands on work, and I feel that this would help advance my learning in the quickest way possible.

I have 8 years of experience in mechanical assembly, where I worked on building motorcycle and tractor headlights. The job requires me to work with my hands every day, use tools, follow detailed instructions, and make sure the finished product met quality standards. Those same skills attention to detail, precision, and working safely with equipment are directly useful in the pipe trades.

In my free time, I spend a lot of time researching and watching videos on plumbing and other construction-related work. I enjoy learning how systems are built and understanding how things work. I also enjoy working with my hands, whether it's small repairs or just figuring out how to fix something that's broken. I get satisfaction out of taking something apart and putting it back together the right way. Doing things like this has taught me to pay attention to detail.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I've researched plumbing , and it intrigues me because it's essential work , and it seems like a challenge that I am all for participating in. I also can see it as a career opportunity to grow in. I want to become a journeyman plumber and create a long lasting career to take care of myself and my family.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because it allows me to learn a trade hands on while earning a paycheck at the same time. I like the idea of building real skills on the job instead of just sitting in a classroom. It also provides a clear path to becoming a licensed professional with good pay and benefits, which gives me long-term stability and

I believe my woodworking program can be of benefit because of everything we learned can be considered a baseline for knowledge pertaining to power tools. While in the program we also had to learn how to properly measure and give accurate cuts to everything we were building . Being in this program taught me that patience and attention to detail are the best ways to achieve results.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I want a career I can work for a very, very long time primarily one that I can utilize my brain and hands for. I landed originally in the steamfitters trade, but upon further research I enjoyed the plumber career path overall . The opportunity to learn to weld is a skill I've always been fascinated by, the opportunity to be a part of the building process of pipes in buildings is something that has always peaked my curiosity.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

The opportunity to learn on the job is something I thrive in. being in class rooms can sometimes be dull compared to being in the field and actively asking questions and working on problems on site --that is just an opportunity not many take. I rather be useful and trained properly on the ways that the work gets done then just theories about

I'm really looking for a career and stability. Searched for a couple of careers and decided to try out plumbing. A lot of people around are always looking for plumber or electricians. I figured I'll look into plumbing instead of switching job to job with. I already work in the sewers and don't mind getting a little dirty.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because of it stability and hands on work. I just often hear people need an electrician or plumber and started researching. Learning new things have always been easy to me especially when it's hands on. Learning from some one with experience and that's in the field already is what really caught my attention

Working as a mail carrier for the US Postal Service, above all the other jobs in my 20+ years experience, has required that I learn how to organize my time efficiently, in order to complete the daily volume. I also became greatly accustomed to working outside in the harshest conditions of the seasons, day in and day out.

My time working with the Stagehands' union in Milwaukee, contributed to an excellence in working together on a large team, orchestrated as a whole. I imagine there are large, commercial construction plumbing projects, where working together efficiently and effectively is part and parcel of the job. Additionally, on many of the big scale stagehand

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

As mentioned above, an apprenticeship is one of the significant reasons for my interest in this opportunity. Hands-on learning has always been greatly preferable to me, versus endless classroom hours. Being paid while learning, is well-suited to my current life circumstances.

I enjoy landscaping on my property, and have worked in the horticultural field in various avenues. I think having an eye for the aesthetic of an organized layout would innately transfer to the skills of plumbing, such as creatively configuring pipes within the confines of a building, and being able to think outside the box when the situation calls for it. Landscaping means having a plan, a vision, and realizing it, often by adapting to the unexpected, such as roots in the way, or severe weather; and it means catering to the specific needs of each plant, while not losing sight of the greater whole of the landscape, so that season after season, the order is maintained, and everything works together. Last but not least, the hard work of it; of digging holes, and planting trees, means having the physical strength and mobility, an inherent part of a plumber's labor.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I am currently looking to make a career change, and became interested in the building trades primarily because of the apprenticeship opportunities; at my age of 39, and becoming a recent Milwaukee homeowner, I am not looking to take on student debt, therefore a paid apprenticeship is ideally suited to my circumstances. After researching both fields, electrical and plumbing, each is attractive in its own way, however, plumbing compels me because of the materials and tools implemented in the trade, and methods of problem-solving utilized.

Maintenance exposed me to plumbing for the first time. As little as changing a sink cartridge, changing vacuum breaker for a toilet, and even unclogging sinks with a snake.

Furthermore, from being a CNC operator, sales associate, and AmeriCorps member. These jobs have helped me from being exposed to plumbing parts, gaining patience, giving me the determination to complete a task. Even with small amount of experience in the pipe trades. These soft skills will help me being open minded and teachable in the trade.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive option to me because I want to be able to learn a skill I want to be learning and doing, a career in a trade, and continuous learning.

Why does learning a skill important? It makes one needed and important, not with pride,

Tell Us About Any Relevant Hobbies:

Soccer is a sport I play on a daily. Soccer exposed me to be able to meet different people and learn how to communicate with people on the field. From goalie to attacker. As well as, being able to play with regular shoes to more comfortable shoes (cleats). As well as, learning when to read other players from the opposing team tactics.

Now, how do these details translate to how they boost my skills to the construction trades? For starters I am able to adapt to meeting new people regardless of age or skill. Moreover, communication is very important in the field to be able to understand, acknowledge, and communicate with everyone. Furthermore, being able to adapt with what we have and determination to finish a task. Lastly, being aware of those around me and self-awareness of myself will help me being able to communicate, adapt, and improve.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

The interest is being able to be part of team, impact a community, and work hard towards achieving a goal that makes a difference in the community being served. As well as taking pride in what is being created or maintained for the better and doing the right thing the first time and safely.

Plumbing? I have some experience and exposure to plumbing, and every time there is a work order or experience, I get excited and tend to focus more on worked being done or willing to get my hands dirty and do the work. For example, one small thing that started the interest in plumbing was changing a cartridge from a sink. As well as, made a presentation for work on how to change a cartridge from a sink.

Woodworking, mostly lathe experience. Woodworking is all about planning out the dimensions of what is being made, selecting the appropriate joining methods, and applying it all until the product has been made. I have also worked with carrier gasses in laboratories, so I'm familiar with specific fittings/setups for commercial grade gas cylinders.

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

Working construction has made me able to accurately measure and cut materials to length. It has also made me familiar with how to access spaces out of my reach (ie ladders), and how to use basic hand tools for demolition and construction.

Working in laboratories has taught me the chemistry of RO water, which helps make decisions on piping material. Laboratories have also helped me to take instruction of particular projects and see them to completion.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I have always enjoyed working with my hands, and seeing the results of my labor in front of me after it's finished. I've been good at learning hands on skills quickly. I've worked with lumber from the age of ~13 in one way or another, and enjoyed the process of making things and helping people.

Plumbing drew me as it is a trade that everyone needs in their homes. It's a steady trade that works year round, and will allow me to learn more about how to properly care for my house as well as sustain my family and I. I know that plumbing specifically can carry certain smells, and that I've probably worked with worse between working in labs and visiting my grandpa's farm. I'm excited to help build the circulatory system of houses.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

It's a real life skill that applies to both professional opportunities as well as being able to help out my friends and neighbors.

Plumbing in particular has always interested me because it is a vital part society, without it, we would be living in the dark ages again.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I think an apprenticeship is the right choice because I like that I can work while learning. I would not be able to attend school full-time without being able to make money since I need to be able to support my family.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

I was inspired to pursue a career in the trades after getting my start in carpentry. Through that experience, I developed a strong interest in working with my hands and building practical, real-world skills. Carpentry taught me the importance of precision, patience, and hard work, and it showed me how rewarding it is to see a project come together from start to finish. It also helped me realize that I enjoy learning skills that have a direct impact and can be used every day.

Since then, I've become especially interested in plumbing, particularly after being introduced to this apprenticeship opportunity. I feel that starting with plumbing is the best path for me because it will allow me to continue growing while gaining hands-on

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is an attractive option to me because it allows me to learn while gaining real-world experience at the same time. Instead of only learning in a classroom, I would be able to work alongside experienced professionals and develop practical skills that I can use in my career. This hands-on learning style fits me well because I learn best

What Interested You in Plumbing?

As far as being interest in a trade, I want to find a career that doesn't need to take on more debt, and something you can constantly learn and grow from. I really like the idea of being paid more- nearly exponentially- based on experience. I want to learn from the best on how to create a tangible end product that I, and my customers can be satisfied from. I also like the idea that a trade is recession and AI resistant, as well as the fact that I can use my acquired knowledge outside of the job.

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

I want a structured program that ensures I have the tools available to further my pay and education. I am eager to learn a hands-on trade, and I want to work as hard as I can at work, so that my family and I can have an easier life outside of work. The idea of earning while I learn is one of the most important things to me.

In my free time, I like staying active and working on hands-on tasks whenever I can. I enjoy things like basic home projects, fixing small issues, and helping out with repairs when something needs to get done. That kind of stuff has helped me get comfortable using tools, following steps, and paying attention to detail.

Tell Us About Any Relevant Jobs :

In my previous jobs, I've developed several skills that transfer well into the pipe trades. I've worked in roles where reliability and showing up on time were critical, and I understand the importance of being consistent and ready to work every day.

I also spend a lot of time being a father, which has honestly helped build my patience, responsibility, and time management. Taking care of my child means staying consistent, solving problems on the spot, and handling situations calmly—skills that definitely transfer into construction work.

I've also gained experience with hands-on tasks, problem-solving, and working under pressure. Whether it was handling deliveries, customer service, or fast-paced environments, I had to think quickly, stay organized, and get the job done right the first time. That attention to detail and ability to follow instructions are important in plumbing, where mistakes can be costly.

What Interested You in Plumbing?

Why are you exploring an apprenticeship program?

An apprenticeship is attractive to me because it gives me the chance to learn while I earn. Instead of just learning in a classroom, I'd be gaining real, hands-on experience while getting paid and building a career at the same time.

I've always been interested in working with my hands and building something real. The building trades stood out to me because it's honest work—you can see the results at the end of the day, and it actually matters in people's everyday lives. I also like that it's a skill you can keep for life and continue to grow in.

Specifically, plumbing caught my attention because it's essential. Every home and business depends on it, and there's always a need for skilled plumbers. I like the problem-solving side of it too—figuring out how systems work, fixing issues, and making sure everything runs properly. It's not just physical work, it takes thinking and precision.
